WHAT’S NEW @ WWW.JANDONLINE.ORG

ARTICLES ONLINE FIRST

Distance Education in Nutrition and Dietetics Education over the last 30 Years: A Narrative Review
The purpose of the narrative review is to summarize the state of knowledge regarding distance education in nutrition over the last 30 years and determine what impact distance education has on knowledge and skills.

Complementary feeding and child appetite trains in a sample of Hispanic mother-child dyads
The study tests the hypothesis that earlier complementary food introduction predicts toddler food responsiveness and emotional overeating and considers whether the introduction of specific foods better predicts toddler dietary self-regulation.

Impacts of Health, Environmental, and Animal Welfare Messages Discouraging Red Meat Consumption: An Online Randomized Experiment
The aim was to evaluate responses to red-meat-reduction messages describing animal welfare, health, or environmental harms.

PODCASTS

New Research on the Retail Marketing of Sugar Sweetened Beverages
JAND Editor-in-Chief Linda Snetselaar, PhD, RDN, LD, FAND interviews Megan Winkler, PhD, RN, about recent research conducted by Dr. Winkler and colleagues on the marketing of sugar sweetened beverages in retail settings as well as working with clients that frequently purchase sugar sweetened beverages.

The Need for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in Nutrition Research
JAND Editor-in-Chief Linda Snetselaar, PhD, RDN, LD, FAND speaks with JAND editorial board member and researcher Carmen Byker Shanks, PhD, RDN about how and why diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) can and should be included nutrition research. Byker Shanks is a co-author of the article “The Need to Incorporate Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion: Reflections from a National Initiative Measuring Fruit and Vegetable Intake” in the July 2022 issue of JAND.

THE JOURNAL ONLINE

The Journal of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics has undergone a mobile-friendly redesign! Academy members and Journal subscribers can get full-access articles from the convenience of a mobile device, anywhere in the world. The Journal website also includes an array of extras like podcasts, curated topic collections, downloadable slides, and more. To start taking advantage of all the online edition of the Journal has to offer, including over ten years of content, visit www.jandonline.org and sign in with your Academy username and password.

FEATURED TOPIC COLLECTION

Research Methodology
The Journal website features a series of specially-curated Topic Collections, where articles on common themes will be grouped together for easy browsing. This month’s featured collection assembles the Journal’s articles on the subject of research methodology.

Access Content Online:

Articles Online First: www.jandonline.org/inpress
Podcasts: www.jandonline.org/content/podcast
Editor’s Podcasts: www.jandonline.org/content editar’s podcast
Educational Slides: www.jandonline.org/content/slides
Featured Topic Collection: www.jandonline.org/content/researchdesign